

INDORSES PROGRAM OF PRESBYTERIANS

Arthur Nash to Speak at Shinn Memorial—Special
Services for Sunday.

Information in possession of Wade C. Smith, now of Chattanooga, and who is pastor of the progressive program of the Southern Presbyterian church, shows that this program with all of the objectives for which it stands, has been received by the various synods of the church and has been indorsed heartily. Mr. Smith is a layman who is prominently identified with the work of the Southern Presbyterian church and he is the pastor-elect of the Presbyterian church in Greensboro, N. C., which is known as "the church by the side of the road." He will be ordained as a minister within a short time and will begin his work as pastor of this North Carolina church in the spring of 1921.

Not only in his own church has Mr. Smith been highly recognized as the result of progressive and effective work he has accomplished in the Southern Presbyterian church and in interdenominational organizations, but the latter organizations have recognized his worth as well. One distinctive instance of this is that he has been elected president of the United Stewardship Council of North America, an organization composed of representative men of forty or more religious denominations, north and south. It is probable that this is the first time a representative of a southern church has been elected as president of this organization or of any religious organization of similar import to this.

Mr. Smith has been identified in a prominent way, for a number of years past, with the publication department of the Southern Presbyterian church, with headquarters at Richmond, Va., where his ability as a business man and an editor received distinct recognition and appreciation.

Arthur Nash.

Arthur Nash, of Cincinnati, who will address the public at the Shinn Memorial church on Sunday morning, says, "That the Golden Rule is the only infallible, workable, industrial and economic law in the universe today. He has demonstrated this in his own career. Always believing in the practice of brotherhood, he began his career as a preacher, but was advised to keep his opinions upon brotherhood to himself as they were not in harmony with the creed of his church. He got out of the church, and carried bricks to support his family. He invested in business in a small way, but was overwhelmed by a flood. He has never had a strike nor a union in his factory and yet has the enthusiastic support of the labor union. He spends his spare time in giving to great audiences composed of employers, employees and the general public the results of his experiment in brotherhood. Mr. Nash will speak at the Universalist church, corner Main and Hickory streets, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and all are cordially invited to hear him.

He draws bird pictures with colored crayons with remarkable rapidity, whistles their songs, and gives a brief account of each species of bird. In the absence of Dr. Steele, of the Third Presbyterian church, Mr. Hutchins

TAYLOR CONGRATULATED BY G. O. P. LEADERS

Washington, Dec. 3.—(Special.)—Representative J. Will Taylor, of the Second Tennessee congressional district, with his office force, arrived here last night. As acknowledged republican leader in his state he was being warmly congratulated today by prominent republicans over the triumph of party in Tennessee. Representative Taylor, who will have much to do with the distribution of patronage in his state, as he will be the senior member of the republican delegation from Tennessee, said that Tennessee would likely have a place in Harding's cabinet and that he favored Gen. James A. Fowler, of Knoxville, for attorney-general.

"Tennessee is just now in the limelight, on account of the recent republican victory in that state, and I am sure we shall be amply recognized by the coming administration," said Mr. Taylor.

"I am hopeful that Tennessee will have a place in the cabinet. I am for Gen. James A. Fowler, of Knoxville, for attorney-general, and I really believe he has a good chance to get the place. He made a splendid record as assistant attorney-general in President Taft's administration. He has strong support, not only in Tennessee, but in other sections of the country as well. I think he would make an ideal attorney-general. He is recognized as one of the leading lawyers of the United States and would be a credit to the cabinet and the country."

"The dominant reason for the victory in Tennessee was the fact that we had perfect harmony in the party. The victory was not due to the efforts, sagacity or ineptitude of any one individual or set of individuals. It was the result of concerted action on the part of all republicans, and the clean, high-toned campaign won many democrats to our cause."

HELD TO GRAND JURY FOR GIVING AWAY DOPE

At a hearing before United States Commissioner S. J. McAllester in the federal building Thursday afternoon, M. M. Lawson was bound over to federal court charged with giving away morphine in violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

Earl Thomas, who is a witness for the government in the McWhorter case now being tried in federal court, charged at Lawson's hearing that the latter had given him morphine in his room at a boarding house and had attempted to keep him from attending the McWhorter trial. As Thomas is one of the most important government witnesses in the case against Dr. McWhorter, who is charged with unlawfully selling drugs, government officials expect to investigate thoroughly the charges preferred against Lawson by Thomas. Lawson's bond was fixed at $5,000 at the preliminary hearing.
